XIII Cochrane Colloquium
22-26 OCTOBER 2005

Discover research and The Cochrane Collaboration: a workshop for consumers

Join us for this free workshop! It is open to all consumers, and is particularly designed for those new to or who have just heard about The Cochrane Collaboration. Registration at the Cochrane Colloquium is not necessary.

Date: Friday, 21 October 2005, 3:00 – 5:00pm.

Afternoon tea will be available from 2:30pm.

Venue: Collins Suite, Grand Hotel, Spencer Street, Melbourne (see map below)

Aim: To create an awareness and understanding of the role and value of health research and the Cochrane Collaboration. Presentations will focus on defining concepts and describing Cochrane and the systematic reviews it produces.

Presenters: Nancy Santesso is the Knowledge Translation Specialist of the Cochrane Musculoskeletal Group and Effective Practice and Organisation of Care Group, based in Ottawa, Canada. Denise Thomson is the Field Administrator of the Cochrane Child Health Field based in Alberta, Canada.

Format of the workshop: The workshop will be a combination of formal presentations and informal discussions. Group sessions will provide opportunities to discuss the process of, and sources of information for, evidence-based decision making.

To attend: Register on the Colloquium website (www.colloquium.info) or contact Melissa Melder at the Australasian Cochrane Centre by email (melissa.melder@med.monash.edu.au) or phone 03 9594 7530.
